How UDT Can Offer the Complete Managed Solutions Advantage

DORAL, FL – Florida-based Information Technology specialists, United Data Technologies (UDT), is pleased to announce that Jim Griffin, former Senior Vice President of Network Dynamics, Inc., has joined the UDT team in the position of Vice President of Service Delivery Operations. While the competition might claim to deliver complete managed solutions, the addition of Jim Griffin to UDT's team brings into sharp focus UDT's complete continuum of client solutions, from inception to implementation to conclusion.

Jim Griffin offers the UDT team and their customers more than 25 years of results-oriented experience, exceptional organizational talent, and customer-focused dedication in the telecommunications and networking industries

"In the past eighteen months, UDT has experienced a 500% growth in our service organization," says Senior Partner, CEO/President, Henry Fleches. "Jim has the knowledge, capability and experience to further expand UDT's service capabilities so that our customers fully benefit from our complete managed solutions advantage."

With a proven record of accomplishment in meeting and exceeding customer expectations, Jim and his team will dedicate themselves to clarifying UDT offerings by market segment, while building and maintaining strong focus on UDT's service organization.

Says UDT Senior Partner and VP of Sales and Marketing, Gerard Amaro, “UDT is continually evolving. The addition of someone of Jim Griffin’s caliber tells our customers that we will never stop dedicating ourselves to building an increasingly superior infrastructure to address all their needs. Inevitably, they experience the value-added service and offerings that only come with the retention of an accomplished team of experts.”

Ana Soler, Vice President of UDT Operations, believes the benefit Jim offers to UDT’s customers is substantial. “Jim’s brings extensive expertise to the management team. He is a powerful asset to UDT’s customers because he’s bringing them a comprehensive solution.”

As UDT’s Vice President of Service Delivery Operations, Jim will pilot all service delivery and operations functions.

Says Jim, “Our customers will continue to experience the full degree of UDT’s value-added capabilities. But now, they’ll experience even more dedication as we provide for all their ongoing needs, including system maintenance, changes, or additions to complement their network and keep it running efficiently and effectively 100% of the time.”

In other words, the complete managed solutions advantage for every customer in every market segment.
