UDT QUICKLY MOVES TOWARD BECOMING FLORIDA'S #1 CONVERGENCE VAR

DORAL, FL – UDT, the Florida-based Information Technology specialists, today announced that on April 24, 2006, it acquired Integrated Technology Services (ITS). The combination of UDT, an industry leader in powerful IT solutions, and ITS, Florida's largest Mitel telephony partner, results in a fully centralized IT company, offering the most comprehensive, cost-effective and expansive menu of converged IT products and services available.

“The union between UDT and ITS create one of the only organizations in Florida to offer a true convergence of data, voice and video,” says UDT Senior Partner and VP of Sales and Marketing, Gerard Amaro. “For all our customers in every market, that means increased and improved response time and beneficial solutions to their business challenges. Additionally, our customers will now have the ability to consolidate their project management. That's going to result in reduced expenditures for them, and most importantly, a single source of accountability for all their IT solutions.”

Indeed, for many companies, the common approach to technology, data communications, and video is fragmented at best. The disparity between departmental responsibilities and the use of multiple vendors creates a complex and often confusing web of issues. Diagnosing specific problems and ultimately, those whose responsibility it is to correct them, can prove time consuming and expensive.

Says UDT Senior Partner, CEO/President, Henry Fleches, “As crossover in the industry occurs, IT departments are becoming more and more responsible for voice and video needs. Since ITS and UDT have joined forces, those professionals no longer need to struggle with a tangle of multiple independent vendors who are limited in what they can offer. Now, they can call UDT and we'll provide them with their complete solutions.”

“This is an exciting time for both UDT and its clientele,” says Ana Soler, UDT Senior Partner and VP of Operations. “It gives us both the opportunity to take our relationship to a new level—one that few IT companies have ever achieved with their clients. Moving forward, we expect to redefine the meaning of “partner” in the information technology workspace.”

UDT has always been committed to its primary mission--to be the resource of choice for customer's technology needs, offering a portfolio of products and services that provide customers with complete solutions. With the acquisition and the convergence of engineering, technical, and sales offerings now available to UDT customers, this mission holds true now more than ever.

Armando Camejo, who will continue on with UDT as the Telephony Solutions Group Director says, “By combining our talents, capabilities and offerings, we're going to open up a whole new scope of customer service that goes way beyond anything our customers have experienced before. We are now truly their single source solution!”
